AXE MURDER HOLLOW (Millcreek, Erie County) This gruesome tale starts in a quiet wooded area off of Sterrettania Road in Millcreek. There you'll find the foundations of a small home. A rock path from there will take you to a creek with a tree stump near its' bank. A jealous husband who suspected his wife of cheating on him with a farmhand chased her down that path and beheaded her on that stump. (Other versions say he killed her and his children in the house.) Then he immolated himself by setting the small house on fire. Skip ahead a few years. A young couple are driving down a narrow road along the creek in the rain when the car got stuck in the mud. The driver told the girl to lock herself in the vehicle while he went for help. Later, she heard the sounds of a struggle, followed by a gurgling noise. A bright light shone in the car and a voice commanded her to get out. Terrified, she did. Hanging from a tree by his ankles was her dead boyfriend with blood dripping from his slit throat. She ran screaming from the figure reaching out for her, holding the light in one hand and a bloody axe in the other. If you ever visit an old friend that's a long-time Erie local, ask him about the tale. He'll know it, and may even take you there. Developers gobbled up the land and built some suburban homes on it. But the road is still there... Matt Lake's collection of tales in Weird Pennsylvania.

DEAD MAN'S CREEK (Girard, Erie County) This creek is located on the Battles estate, and is often called Battles Creek. The legend goes that there was a community celebration being held in the summer of 1861 on the Battles grounds and as two men were walking by the creek, they stumbled across the body of a dead man floating in the shallows. He looked to be about 21 and his throat was slit from ear to ear. The dead man was dressed in a new, perfectly tailored military uniform - from the War of 1812! Nobody knew who he was. His discovery was the talk of the town that summer. Did his murderer come up with a bizarre plan to frustrate local lawmen? Some darker theories suggested he was transported from the past or another spiritual plane to the creek (Spiritualism was the rage at that time.) No matter how he got there, his ghost is alleged to walk along the creek looking for his assassin. That's the legend on why tiny Battles Creek became known locally as Dead Man's Creek. LACKAWANNA STATION HOTEL (Scranton, Lackawanna County) The hotel was built back in 1908 to serve Scranton, then one of the busiest railroad terminals in the East. In 1977 the six story historic landmark underwent a multi-million dollar makeover when it became a Radisson property. The hotel was used as a morgue for soldiers killed during World War I; catch where we're going here - It has the usual reports of freezing rooms that paralyzes guests and lights that shut on and off. It has ghosties, too. One spook is the phantom bellhop, an African American gentleman in a tuxedo, who knocks on your door and asks if everything is OK. Another apparition was seen on the 6th floor, leaning over a railing that overlooked the dining room below. The ghost told the visitors he was killed in a car accident. As he was talking to them, his head spun around 360 degrees and he jumped over the railing. Talk about spook central - a woman jumped from the 6th floor of the hotel to her death. She was staying in room 629. Her ghost is said to haunt the 6th floor. And guess what - if you go to the hotel there is no longer a Room 629. The basement is supposed to be haunted, too; that's where the morgue was. One visitor reported seeing a boy in a top hat there.

Upcoming & Ongoing Expeditions:

The UFO Research Center of Pennsylvania, Phantoms and Monsters Fortean Research Team and others will converge on Clearfield, Blair and Cambria Counties to research and investigate sightings of bi-pedal creatures reported in those areas. The first phase of the Investigative Expeditions has started with Clearfield County as the first target area. Cambria and Blair Counties are next up.
